

Supplementary information

Recombinant extracellular vesicles as biological reference material for method development, data normalization and assessment of (pre-)analytical variables

In the format provided by the authors and unedited

